

Quedlinburg Old town

Picturesque half-timbered houses, modern art behind ancient walls, romantic alleys with small cafés and restaurants, dominated by the Romanesque collegiate church: Quedlinburg is the living UNESCO World Cultural Heritage town in the northern Harz foothills! The different districts (including Bad Suderode and Gernrode) combine World Cultural Heritage with a spa town and nature-based recreation. The most important feature is the Old town of Quedlinburg with its 2,069 half-timbered houses spanning eight centuries. Yet, the town is alive: you can visit artists' workshops, and the three-tiered theatre offers a versatile stage program. You are also invited to feel the homely atmosphere during Advent season.

Between the Harz Mountains and the River Weser UNESCO World Heritage Sites in Alfeld, the Harz Mountains, in Hildesheim, Höxter and Quedlinburg

Five World Heritage Sites between the Harz Mountains and the River Weser

The region between the Harz Mountains and the River Weser is characterized by a high density and variety of UNESCO World Heritage sites. Within a range of approximately 100 kilometers, five World Heritage Sites are waiting to be discovered: in Alfeld, the Harz Mountains, in Hildesheim, Höxter and Quedlinburg.

Each World Heritage site is unique and represents its particular history. Still there are historical commonalities: while the Upper Harz Water Management System and the mines of Rammelsberg in Goslar reflect minings time of prosperity ⚙️, the World Heritage churches in Hildesheim 🏰 and the former imperial abbey Corvey 🏰 are impressive testimonials of medieval church art. The historic districts of Goslar and Quedlinburg 🏰 enchant the visitor with their well preserved half-timbered buildings from several centuries, whereas the Fagus Factory in Alfeld 🏭, the first industrial building of modern era, is still actively producing.

The close distance between the World heritage sites allows you to visit several landmarks in only one day. Alternatively, you might prefer to visit all five sites during a 5-day-tour.

We cordially invite you to become acquainted with the UNESCO World Heritage sites between the Harz Mountains and the River Weser!

Alfeld Fagus Factory

The Fagus Factory was built in 1911 as the first example of modern industrial architecture by the architect and Bauhaus founder, Walter Gropius. 100 years later, in 2011, it was declared a UNESCO World Heritage site. The architect managed to give a medium sized company an unaccustomed appearance that was completely divergent from traditional architectural styles. The plant reflects an architectural concept which, for the first time, respected the human need for light, air and clarity. Moreover, the living monument is characterized by its active production plant. For more than 100 years, shoe lasts have been manufactured in this significant industrial building.

Goslar / Harz Mines of Rammelsberg, Historic Town of Goslar and Upper Harz Water Management System

What visitors to the World Heritage site »Mines of Rammelsberg, Historic Town of Goslar and Upper Harz Water Management System« get to see is rare and special: An ore mine from the 12th century with the oldest tunnels in Europe. A medieval town centre with 1,500 half-timbered houses. The »Kaiserpfalz«, or Imperial Palace, from where German emperors made world politics. Or the Upper Harz Water Management System, one of the largest pre-industrial energy supply systems worldwide in the midst of breathtaking landscapes. Whether above ground or below, with helmet or rucksack, on your own or with a World Heritage guide – come and experience unique World Heritage in the Harz.

Hildesheim St Michael's Church, St Mary's Cathedral and the Cathedral Treasure

Two churches in Hildesheim, including their art treasures, were accepted by the UNESCO to the World Heritage lists in 1985: St Michael's Church, one of the most beautiful early-Romanesque churches in Germany, and St Mary's Cathedral with its Cathedral Treasure. Closely related on an historical and spatial level, they preserve a unique ensemble of medieval decorative art. Both churches are examples of the arrangement and decoration of a Romanesque church room rarely found on this scale.

Höxter Carolingian Westwork and Civitas Corvey

With its almost 1,200 years of history, the former Benedictine abbey near Höxter was considered one of the most important monastic establishments in the Middle Ages. The monastery, conveniently located right on the banks of the River Weser, was subordinate directly to the emperor. During the 9th and 10th century it blossomed into a spiritual, cultural and economical center in the Saxony area. With its almost completely preserved Carolingian Westwork and the immersed Civitas Corvey, the former imperial abbey and recent castle ground was awarded World Heritage Site status by UNESCO in 2014.
